FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

October 22, 2011 – DAHLONEGA, GA – Dr. Iris Chen, a remarkable and diversified practitioner, is offering a free 8-part webinar series hosted by Energetix, a homeopathic medicine, botanical remedy and nutritional supplement company.

A licensed Acupuncture Physician in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, Dr. Chen earned her M.D. at Medical school of Beijing University in Beijing, China and Ph.D. in molecular biology at McMaster University in Hamilton, Ontario Canada. She is the owner and director of HealthEast Oriental Healing Center. Her successful practice incorporates a variety of treatment modalities and natural remedies.

Chen was inspired as a young child to enter the healing field. Asked about the source of her inspiration, she said, “I grew up in a hospital where my mother worked as an obstetrician and gynecologist. Those early years of exposure to illness and suffering touched me so deeply that I committed myself to healing, and particularly to the prevention of illness. While most of my classmates are practicing Western Medicine in the United States, I decided to focus on Chinese Medicine, using my Western Medicine training to enhance my understanding of illness and ability to care for my patients.”

According to Gregg Hake, CEO Energetix, “Dr. Chen’s work bridges the classical medical systems of homeopathy and Traditional Chinese Medicine, updating both approaches to meet the particularly challenging medical conditions faced by today’s healthcare practitioners. We are honored to host this webinar series and congratulate Dr. Chen on her pioneering work that has proven time and time again to improve patient outcomes”
